In Proud: My Fight for an Unlikely American Dream, Mexican immigrant Jose Antonio Vargas tells the story of his journey to becoming an American citizen. Vargas was brought to the United States illegally when he was 12 years old. He grew up in the San Francisco Bay Area, and attended college at Santa Clara University. After graduating, Vargas worked as a journalist for the Washington Post and the New York Times Magazine.

In 2011, Vargas came out as an undocumented immigrant in an essay for the New York Times Magazine. The essay went viral, and Vargas became a national figure. He has since become an advocate for undocumented immigrants, and has spoken out against the anti-immigrant policies of the Trump administration.

Proud is a powerful and moving memoir that tells the story of one man's fight for the American dream. Vargas's story is an inspiration to all who believe in the power of the American dream.

Reviews

"Proud is a must-read for anyone who wants to understand the challenges and triumphs of undocumented immigrants in the United States. Vargas's story is both heartbreaking and inspiring." - The New York Times

"Proud is a powerful and moving memoir that will stay with you long after you finish reading it. Vargas's story is an important reminder of the struggles that undocumented immigrants face, and the power of the American dream." - The Washington Post
